Do you have to be certified to do eyelash extensions in texas

One of the best things about working with eyelash extensions—other than lashing like a boss—are your coworkers! For us, every day feels like going to work with our BFFs. The Texas lash scene is no different; after all, the state motto is “Friendship,” so you know your Texas-bound lash sisters have your back. First and foremost? Sharing is caring amongst lash BFFs, which is why we want to share this piece of wisdom with you: lash friends don’t let friends lash without the right certifications! Keeping this in mind, we at The Lash Professional are here to help Texas lash lovers get their dream careers started. So, if you want to do eyelash extensions in Texas, keep reading to learn about Texas eyelash extension certification requirements. Plus, we even tell you where you can get the best lash training in the state! Generally speaking, it is important to remember that every state is going to have varying eyelash extension certification requirements. In other words, don’t expect the same requirements if you move from one state to another! Luckily, the state of Texas makes it pretty clear what you need to start lashing properly. The Texas eyelash extension certification requirements state that you need a cosmetology and esthetician license as well as possibly needing a specialty eyelash extension license. According to the Texas Department of Licensing & Regulation (TDLR), you “must have a high school diploma or equivalency to apply for a Texas cosmetology license.” Your first step towards being a certified eyelash extensions artist is to enroll in a Texas beauty school. Make sure you choose your school wisely because the TDLR requires at least 320 hours of approved eyelash extension instruction to get an eyelash extension license. So, when you choose what beauty school to enroll in, don’t hesitate to check out their information on their curriculum. You want to get the best education possible, after all! Once your hard work in your training is complete, you are ready to take the required written and practical exams. By contacting the TDLR’s third-party vendor, PSI, you’ll receive the exam information you need to schedule and take your exams. Now, you’ll probably want a moment to celebrate passing those exams. We get it—you deserve the celebration! But don’t forget, you’ve got just one more step before you’re properly certified. After passing your exams, you can apply for a cosmetology license and an eyelash extension specialty license! Keep in mind that an eyelash extension specialty license is only valid for 2 years before you have to renew it. Texas Eyelash Extension Training Programs may seem like getting your license will take a lot of work, but it is absolutely worth it, ladies. You’re likely eager to get started, and we can’t blame you. Rest easy, ladies, because we at The Lash Professional came prepared with some killer training programs to kickstart your lash learning. For those that want a piece of the lashing action, we have hands-on lash training in Dallas and Houston. Not only will you get to learn to lash by trying it yourself, but some of our top lash queens also guide you at The Lash Professional! In addition to our in-person classes, we’ve also got an online lash training program. You’ll get the same crucial lash training in an online environment. Plus, you can learn to lash at your own pace! It’s a win-win for those who’ve got a tight schedule. Meet your new lash-loving BFFs and learn about the world of lashing from The Lash Professional’s own lashing experts. Get started by checking out Texas eyelash extension training programs near you! Women spend millions of dollars each year trying to get longer, lusher, fuller lashes. While mascara may be enough for many, some women just didn’t score the genetic jackpot when it comes to long lashes. Eyelash extensions are a viable alternative for getting long lashes, but here are some things to know before you go! How do eyelash extensions work? Individual lashes are dipped into a medical-grade adhesive and bonded to your natural eyelash. This process is done one lash at a time, so it can take a while. The adhesive can last about 4-6 weeks depending on how careful you are (the more you rub your eyes, wash your face, etc. the quicker the adhesive will wear off). If you get regular touch-ups (re-application of adhesive) the lashes can last longer. One pretty cool thing about eyelash extensions is that it can be custom to you. You can pick the color, texture and length of the lash, so whether you want a more natural look or an ultra-glam look there is a lash for you! What are the downsides? While this process is generally considered safe, there are some things you should be aware of before you decide to commit to lash extensions. Cost - This process is not cheap! You can spend anywhere from $120 to $500 for a set of lashes (I even heard of silk eyelashes for $700 - wow!). You also have to consider the cost of touch-ups (or fills) which can be $40 or $50 per visit. Side Effects - The two main concerns when getting eyelash extensions are reaction to the adhesive and breakage. Some women may experience an allergic reaction or sensitivity to the adhesive used for attaching the lashes, particularly in the eye region which is sensitive to begin with. Be sure to let the esthetician know in advance if you have concerns about allergies—you may want to request a patch test prior to getting the extensions. Also, frequent extensions could lead to hair breakage (excessive pulling or tugging can damage hair follicles and potentially lead to hair loss). Other Things to Consider - How long the adhesive lasts is really dependent on how careful you are with the extensions. Excessive eye rubbing, washing of the face, oil-based makeup removers and mascara can all wear down the adhesive, causing the lashes to fall out more often and requiring more touch-ups. Bottom Line! Have to admit that eyelash extensions look great, which is why they are so popular among celebrities! However, given the prohibitive cost they are not a realistic option for everyone. Honestly, you can get some pretty fantastic false lashes these days and with a little practice you can get long, full lashes anytime you want (Of course false lashes only last a day or two!). If you want something more permanent, then you should give eyelash extensions a try. Just be sure to go to a professional and understand the cost and maintenance upfront so you know what to expect. Eyelash extensions increase the beauty of our eyes. These are the false eyelashes that are applied to our natural eyelashes to enlarge them. The application of these lashes is only done by a technician or artist. If you are interested to become a technician of eyelashes extension in Texas, we will guide you every step. Every state has different requirements for getting the certificate of eyelashes extension. We will inform you about the Texas requirements for the certificate. LICENSE The first and foremost requirement for getting a certificate of eyelash extension training is the license of esthetician and cosmetology. You may also need a license for specialty eyelash extensions. EDUCATION REQUIREMENT To apply for the license, you must have a diploma from high school or its equivalent degree. In case of not having a diploma, you can take a test of ability-to-benefit which is administered by a testing agency. Through this test, your ability is measured for training. For this, you can concern community colleges in your area for getting information about the ability-to-benefit tests. BEAUTY SCHOOL You will have to enroll in a beauty school to apply for an eyelash extension certificate in Texas. This school issues the student permit in training. During training, it is mandatory to take 230 hours of instruction in an eyelash extension training program. EXAMINATION After going through the training requirements, you have to pass practical and written licensing exams to get your license. An email by the third-party vendor (PSI) will be sent to you for confirmation and instructions for the exams. APPLICATION AND FEE After passing the practical and written test, you can apply for an eyelash extension specialty license as well as a cosmetology license. . You can apply online or by email. You will have to submit the fee of $50 for the license. The fee is non-refundable. The age requirement for applying for the license is a minimum of 17 years. You must know that license of eyelash extension is valid for only 2 years from the issuing date. After this, you will have to renew it. TEXAS EYELASH EXTENSION TRAINING PROGRAMS After having both licenses, you can apply for two courses in Texas. FUNDAMENTAL OF EYELASH EXTENSION APPLICATION COURSE CERTIFICATION IN EYELASH EXTENSION APPLICATION COURSE Each course has 2 days of training by skilled and professional trainers. After completing the course and getting the certificate, you can enlist in the Lash Stylist Directory of Texas by bringing the clients to the salon. Now you have the chance to polish your skills. Promote your business and get benefitted from the latest techniques. For this, you can enroll in online education as well as advanced eyelash extension training. So, if you want to get certified to do eyelash extensions in Texas, set your schedule and follow the above-mentioned instructions. By getting a certificate you can run your own business by opening your salon and offering services to the clients.
